

Hydrangea macrophylla x serrata BLACK VELVET® 'DARBI'

A hydrangea of striking contrast

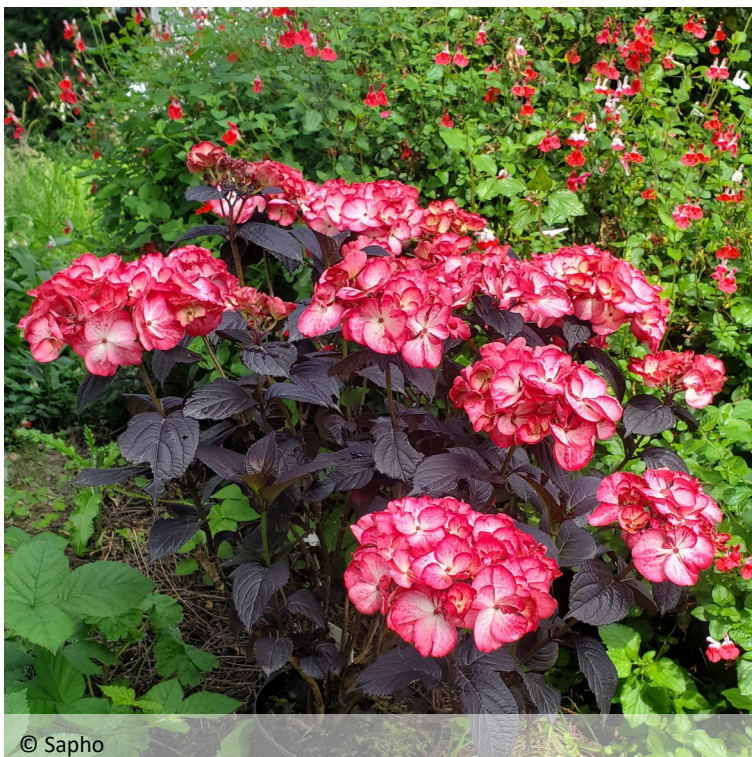

This new variety is remarkable for its luminous black foliage, even in shade, and its two-tone flowering.

In early summer, its flowers form balls with white petals and a crimson-red border, which change to a more coppery red at the end of flowering.

This colourful plant is ideal for livening up a border. Thanks to its compact shape, it is also suitable for small spaces and for growing in a large pot on a shady terrace (or in moderate sun (morning or evening only)).
