

Prunus lusitanica ssp azorica TICO® 'YBRAZO01'

Worth a try: a new evergreen

This new evergreen is an asset for the producer: its growth is vigorous and it forms very well. The young shoots offer a pretty bronze shimmer, later the foliage turns bright light green, which contrasts with the red petioles. In the autumn it turns bronze green.

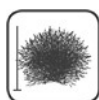

The slightly flared and drooping shape as well as the small and curled leaves give the shrub a light and natural silhouette.

Very hardy for a Prunus azorica.

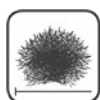

Ideal for the revival of hedges!
