

Vitex x Chicagoland Blues 'Daniel Searle'

A new hybrid chaste tree, created at the Chicago Botanical Garden, is highly resistant to cold

This compact, spreading shrub forms an attractive, round mass, with satin-green deciduous foliage combining rounded, simple and three-decorated leaves. Its long, dark-blue flowers are highly melliferous and are borne on dark stems. This variety is very interesting for its resistance to cold, parasites and drought, and its late summer flowering.
